DETAILED ACTION

Restriction/Election

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-13 (in part), 15-37 (in part), 39 (in part) and 42-44 (in part), drawn to diazepine compounds ($l=1$, $k=2$ or $l=2$, $k=1$ and Z^1 is N), classified in class 540, subclass various.
 - II. Claims 1-12 (in part), 14-37 (in part), 39 (in part) and 42-44 (in part), drawn to azepine compounds ($l=1$, $k=2$ or $l=2$, $k=1$ and Z^1 is C), classified in class 540, subclass various.
 - III. Claims 1-12 (in part), 14-37 (in part), 39 (in part) and 42-44 (in part), drawn to azetidine compounds ($l=k=0$), classified in class 540, subclass various.
 - IV. Claims 1-13 (in part), 15-39 (in part), and 42-44 (in part), drawn to piperazine compounds ($l=k=1$ and Z^1 is N), classified in class 544, subclass various.
 - V. Claims 1-12 (in part), 14-39 (in part), and 42-44 (in part), drawn to piperidine compounds ($l=k=1$ and Z^1 is C), classified in class 546, subclass various.
 - VI. Claims 1-14 (in part), 14-37 (in part), 39 (in part) and 42-44 (in part), drawn to azole and diazole compounds ($l=0$, $k=1$ or $l=1$, $k=0$ and $Z^1 = C$ or N), classified in class 548, subclass various.

VII. Claims 40-41, drawn to complex composition compounds, classified in class 514, subclass various.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons: Groups I-VI are directed to structurally dissimilar compounds such that the variable core created by the varying definitions of Z^1 , I and k in the compound formula do not belong to the same recognized class of chemical compounds in the art, and references anticipating one invention, would not render obvious the others. Groups I-VI are drawn compounds, simple composition and use, are different from Group VII that are drawn to complex composition. Group II has an additional ingredient (corticosteroid) that is not present in Group I. This is because of the possibility of synergistic interaction, which is usually the purpose of the complex composition in the first place. Groups I (diazepines) are different from Groups II-VI, because they have 2 nitrogens in the seven-membered ring and this feature is not present in Groups II-VI. Group II (azepines) is different than Groups I, III-VI, since it contains a nitrogen in a seven-membered ring. Group III is drawn to azetidine (one N in a four-membered ring) that is not present in Groups I-II and III-VI. Group IV is drawn to piperazines (2 nitrogens in a six-membered ring) that is not present in Groups I-III and V-VI. Group V is drawn to piperidines (one nitrogen in a six-membered ring) and this feature is not present in Groups I-IV and VI. Group VI is drawn to azoles and diazoles (five-membered ring with one or two nitrogens) and is different than Groups I-V. Thus, separate searches in the literature as well as in the U.S. Patent Classification System would be required. Each group's compounds are made and used independently of each other and could support separate patents. The compounds differ significantly in chemical structures. One skilled in the art would not consider such diverse structure equivalents of each other. Thus, separate searches in the literature as well as in the U.S. Patent Classification System would be required. Each group's compounds are made and used independently of each other and could support separate patents. The compounds differ significantly in chemical structures. One skilled in the art would not consider such diverse structure equivalents of each other.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions anticipated by prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

A telephone call was made to Ms. Kate Murashige on Jan. 28, 2003 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
